01 Risk and Reward

In Geneticrypto we teach you how to understand the relationship between risk and reward. Risk management measures volatility and the likelihood of negative outcomes to a trade. However, a successful trader should never run away from risk because risk and potential returns are positively correlated.

02 Technical Analysis

Geneticrypto guide our traders with technical analysis to identify and predict trends and patterns in the value changes of a currency. Technical analysis helps our traders to find key support and resistance levels. This information is used to determine the best time to enter or exit a trade.

03 News and Community Sentiment

We are keeping track of community discussion and news events because this information impacts the market price of cryptocurrencies and stocks. News and rumors can have powerful effects on the market and often create lucrative trading opportunities. Our team take advantage of the power of information by staying active in the Blockchain and the stock market community and keeping track of the news to bring the highest results.

04 Order Types: Limits, Take profits and Stop Losses

Digital assets and stocks have a variety of tools traders can use to prevent mistakes and prevent losing trades from spiraling out of control; these include stop losses and limit orders. We teach our traders how to understand the different order types and loss mitigation techniques.

05 Self-Control

The traders must understand their own emotions, especially fear and greed. Emotional control is what separates successful cryptocurrency or stocks traders from everyone else. Fear and greed are powerful emotional forces that can cloud a person's judgment, causing them to make the wrong decisions. Successful traders learn how to control their emotions and stick to their trading strategy, we giving tips and strategies how to avoid and control it.
